GRADUATES

We are new graduates looking for placement and would appreciate working in a group practice alongside other established physicians, in a structured environment where we can be guaranteed a roster of patients.

JUNIOR PRACTITIONER

I have been in my own practice for five years and I have recently married. I have plans to start a family and would like to work in an environment where I can have flexibility to make my own hours without the worry of managing staff and committing to a lease.

JUNIOR PRACTITIONER

I work six days per week in order to keep up with my patient needs. I no longer take new patients, and do not see myself keeping up this pace of work indefinitely. I am looking for a place where I can share some of my workload, while still keeping my patient roster. I don't have the time to worry about implementing an EMR system nor do I have the staff to dedicate to a transition at this time.

SENIOR PRACTITIONER

I have been working in a practice alongside another doctor within a shared office space. My colleague has recently fallen ill and he can no longer work. Our lease has expired and I am looking to downsize my space. I am looking for an environment where I don't have to manage an office.

SENIOR PRACTITIONER

I am now looking for a full-time position. I still have no desire to have a practice of my own. I need an environment where I can have the flexibility to create my own hours, to share space and to transition into a larger group practice.

RETIRING PRACTITIONER

I am thinking of retiring and am looking for a transitional solution where I slowly reduce my hours of work and share my patient base with other colleagues.

NURSE PRACTITIONER

I have been a nurse for ten years and am looking for an environment where I can apply my health care training to help doctors transition patients, while providing better health care assistance.

STYLE

Each practitioner has his or her own unique characteristics and work style. In order for a doctor to reach his/her maximum work potential, considerable discipline is required within one's own practice, or work environment. Our Group Managed Practice Solution helps doctors achieve higher patient throughput. The style and design of our work environments make the routine of daily operations seamless.

SPACE

The space for our Group Managed Practice Solution has been designed by a qualified group of health care professionals and architects, working together to create the highest level of efficiency for a medical environment.

STAFF

Our staff have been trained to manage a Group Managed Practice Solution, thereby offering valuable support and services to both patients and doctors. A well managed staff will provide for a good work environment.

SYSTEMS

Our technology partner has been in the EMR (electronic medical records) industry for twenty years. They service several large medical practices, including one with twenty-seven doctors, where the volume of patient flow is between seven to twelve patients per hour per doctor.

MEDICAL DIRECTOR

I am the Medical Director of an existing practice. I have worked with many technologies and service providers in the health care industry. I see a need for a Group Managed Practice Solution environment for my own office, and see myself as part of this team, providing better sustainable health care for patients and a better work environment for staff and doctors.
